

María Eugenia Póo Llanillo

Embryology Director at IGENOMIX
me.poo@igenomix.com

She graduated as Biologist at the Universidad Simón Bolívar (USB), Venezuela and completed the training in immunology of human reproduction and molecular biology through postgraduate courses at the same university.

She has more than 25 five years of experience on IVF field working as embryologist and participating in different research projects being member of Dr. Carlos Simon's team working on application of stem cells in Reproductive Medicine.

Nowadays, she works at Igenomix as the Embryology Director giving technical support and scientific advising to IVF clinics worldwide.

Also, develops educational activities coordinating national and international courses and works as associate professor of University of Valencia.

